GULF WAS BOILING HOT DISASTER IS GROWING.

Jets Leaped Into the Two Hundred and Fifty Feet.

FISHERMEN ARE SCARED.

Smack on Her Way to Galveston Was Caught in a Series of Cross Currents and All the Ice in Her Hold Melted by the Heat.

Chicago, April 18.—The lower Gulf of Mexico was converted into a sea of boiling water Sunday night, when the earth cracked and jets of hot water shot into the air nearly 250 feet, says a dispatch to the Inter Ocean from Galveston.

Fishing smacks of the Gulf Fisheries company, plying between Galveston and the fishing grounds off Campeche, are arriving and the crews relate harrowing tales of their experiences, not knowing of the Mexican earthquake until they reached here.

The crew of the Aloha, Captain Swenson, was paralyzed with fright about midnight Sunday when the smack, which was homeward bound, was caught in a series of cross currents, which held it a prisoner for nearly an hour. Three hours later the ice in the hold used to preserve the fish had melted.

EDWARD AND EMMANUEL.

Kings Meet on Board Vessel and Embrace One Another.

Gaeta, April 18.—The British yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Edward and Queen Alexandra on board, arrived here about 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning from Valetta, Island of Malta, escorted by the British armored cruisers Suffolk and Lancaster. King Edward was received by King Victor Emmanuel, who was on board the Italian royal yacht Trimacria, surrounded by twelve Italian warships and twelve torpedo boats. Salutes were exchanged and hearty cheers greeted the British king from the people ashore and sailors on board the warships. The weather, which has been most stormy recently, fortunately cleared to a great extent, and the meeting of the two kings took place under more favorable auspices than had been anticipated.

The two kings embraced each other repeatedly when they met on board the Trimacria, and King Victor Emmanuel kissed Queen Alexandra's hand. Luncheon on board the Trimacria followed. It was mainly attended by military and naval officers. The toasts exchanged were simply expressions of friendship between Italy and Great Britain. A crowd of English women, who were permitted to witness King Edward's arrival from the high bastions of the fort, gave vent to their patriotism by singing "God Save the King," which was acknowledged by the British royal yacht dipping her ensign.

PRESIDENT SCORED.

Seattle Central Labor Council Passes Condemnatory Resolutions.

Seattle, April 18.—The Seattle Central Labor council passed resolutions scoring President Roosevelt's action in referring to E. H. Harriman as a citizen as undesirable as Moyer, Haywood or Debs. The resolutions criticize the president for prejudicing the alleged murderers of former Governor Steunenberg before the have been tried and for denying them the rights that American citizens are presumed innocent until proved guilty. Labor leaders requested the president to retract and asked for a square deal for the men whose names they declare he clouded.

Instead of Diminishing It Seems to Increase.

FULLY FIFTY FATALITIES.

Escape From Death in an Educational Institution of a Number of Children One of the Most Miraculous Known in the World's History.

City of Mexico, April 18.—Owing to the great difficulty in establishing communication with the cities which suffered from the recent earthquake details are coming to this city very slowly. Each succeeding intelligence magnifies instead of diminishes the extent of the disaster. From the latest reports it is now learned that the earth is now still in the region which was sorely afflicted, but the last shock occurred as late as noon Wednesday. In the list of known dead, which now totals fifty, and of the injured, which approximates 300, are many names of Mexicans prominent in the official and social life of the region. So far the name but one American, a lady, and no other foreigner has appeared in the meager list of dead and injured, as sent to this city, although many are residents of the district afflicted, being engaged in mining and agricultural pursuits. The country most damaged is a particularly rich territory.

One of the most remarkable stories of miraculous escape from death in this earthquake, or perhaps any other, came from Santa Julia. In that locality is located the Salesiano college, a school for children. The building was a new structure, and supposed to be earthquake proof. When the big shock came Sunday night over 100 children were asleep in the building. Thirty-five of these, together with the teachers, succeeded in leaving the building before the second story and the roof fell. When the horrified teachers counted their charges and found that seventy were missing they improvised rope ladders and ascended to where they believed they would find the mangled remains of the missing pupils. Their surprise and joy was unbounded when they reached the highest point of the ruins and found the terrified children clinging to beams and rafters. Not one was even injured. The roof, in falling, had so rested on the beams that an open space was left over the place where the little ones had sought refuge. The children were safely conveyed to the ground.

The following telegram, bearing an Acapulco date, has been received: "News has reached this port of the complete destruction of Ayutla. The civil hospital collapsed, but not one of the patients was injured. The prisons, one for men and one for women, both fell, but the prisoners were removed. The factories are all in ruins, and thousands of laborers will suffer tremendously. The postoffice, telegraph office and the barracks were all totally destroyed."

Word came from Chilpancingo says that Governor Guillen of the state of Guerrero is in poor health, but that he is among the sufferers, doing all in his power to relieve the suffering people, and giving orders where needed.

In Tuxtla seven people were taken from the ruins dead, and many injured were removed. In Tuxtla eight dead and many injured were removed; in Ayutla nine dead and fifty injured.

In Tuxtla the authorities have ordered the church to be closed, as there is danger of it falling any minute. The people are not even allowed to pass the street on which it fronts.

In Huamixtlan the cathedral fell and the houses of Messrs. Sanchez and Frederico Savedra and the government offices and the official schools are in ruins. The rest of the residences are more or less damaged.

In Techan and Tlapi nearly all the houses fell in, but fortunately nobody was hurt.

The severest loss which resulted from the earthquake shock in the vicinity of the City of Mexico was that sustained by the Mexican Clay Manufacturing company at its plant in Santa Julia. This large property is owned and controlled by an American company. It is estimated that their loss will approximate $50,000.

A careful survey of this city has shown that the damage sustained was heavier than at first supposed. In some instances buildings were so shaken from their foundations that it will be necessary to rebuild.

JEROME UNCHANGED.

Will Oppose In Every Way Release of Thaw on Bail.

New York, April 18.—Mr. Jerome, in speaking of the Thaw case, said that his position is unchanged from what it was immediately after the jury reported a disagreement—namely, that he will oppose in every possible way the release of Thaw on bail.

When questioned about the signed statement issued by Mrs. Nesbit-Holman, mother of Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, Mr. Jerome said he had heard it. "I can't vouch for some of the things said by Mrs. Holman, because I do not know about them," said the district attorney, "but I can assure you that when she said she furnished the district attorney no information for use in connection with the trial of Thaw she spoke the truth. Mrs. Holman never gave us any information."

OMITTED WORK.

Legislators Reminded of What Was Not Done.

Austin, April 18.—In his message to the legislature Governor Campbell calls attention to the platform demands not acted upon at the regular session. He declared that technical absurdities should be weeded out, and also states there is need of revision of the tax laws. He also insists that revenue legislation is necessary.

A bare quorum, counting the speaker, was present in the house at the fall of the speaker's gavel at 2 o'clock Wednesday.

Thirteen new bills were read and referred, making a total of forty introduced at the special session.

The governor's message to the legislature was read.

On motion of Mr. Cobbs the house ordered printed 2,000 copies of the two messages sent by the governor to the called session.

The house took up on engrossment a bill by Messrs. Orgain and Kennedy increasing the charter fees to be paid to the state.

At the conclusion of the reading the question as to whether the bill had been ordered printed or had been reported out of the committee, as to notations appeared on the printed bill, was raised by Mr. Strickland, and the chair ruled that as no committee report appeared, the bill could not, at this time, be considered by the house.

In the senate Senator Willacy introduced a bill appropriating $33,000 to pay the per diem salaries of members and officers, and a bill appropriating $10,000 for contingent expenses of the session.

The finance committee reported favorably both bills from the floor, and they were immediately called up and finally passed under a suspension of the rules.

The governor's message amplifying the subjects first submitted was read, after which the senate adjourned until Thursday.

AGED MAN DIES.

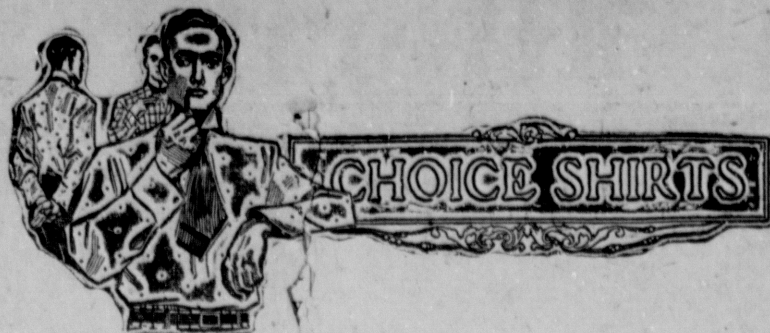

Had Resided In Falls County For About Forty Years.

Marlin, Tex., April 18.—Charles Campbell, late of Cego, this county hoary with age and bending beneath the weight of 107 years and some days, has gone on that journey to "the undiscovered country, from whose bourn no traveler returns." He came to Texas in an early day and served in the war with Mexico. In fact, he was a veteran of three wars. His residence in Falls county dates back about forty years.

He was doubtless the oldest person in the county at the time of his death.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC LAY SERMON

Today will be long remembered by the children and young people of Bryan, and by many of the older ones too. There is not a boy or girl in the city who has planned to go to either of the picnics, who will not bounce out of bed early this morning and welcome the bright sunlight as the special benediction of heaven. Away with books and tablets, knotty examples, difficult grammatical constructions, elusive and unpronounceable geographical names on the other side of the earth and hazy historical incidents. Let us be gone to the woods where the buds are bursting under the mysterious processes of nature, where the sward is carpeted with living green and dotted with wild flowers. Are the birds not calling from the tree tops and the soft winds whispering amid the tender foliage? With bats, and balls and swings and things there is nothing to do but make merry all the day long, and eat from the well filled baskets laden with the good things that mother makes on special occasions, and that linger in the memory with all the sweetness of honey in the honey comb after the long years of manhood have robbed the sated palate of this superlative power of taste. Let us get all that is possible out of this glorious day, and out of every other day that we live, whether it be given to study, to toil or to refreshment. Let us strive to make others happy, for therein shall be found our greatest joy. Each day that the boy and girl lives adds more to the character than to the stature, and counts more for making or marring a life with all the ramifications of its influence. Let us learn today, while we breathe God's pure air and walk in his sunlight, that the child is more tender and beautiful than all the other works of God, and has a greater destiny. Let each of us remember that our bodies are animate "temples for the indwelling of the holy spirit," and whenever in the course of our lives, our hearts and minds are tenanted with evil thoughts and passions, we have opened the door to aliens to profane God's temples. Our week day and Sunday schools are but to teach us to live usefully, intelligently and righteously. May the bright, beautiful lovely and lovable boys and girls of Bryan so remain throughout the springtime of youth, and through all the busy years of after life. And if one be plucked as the days speed on by the hand of death, for transplanting in the garden of our Lord in Paradise, as happened but two days since in our very midst, bringing the keenest sorrow to all hearts, may such as are called be always ready as she was, to return to God with a spirit all stainless and pure as when He gave it.

There! the wagons and buggies are hurrying by and gathering at the courthouse, while down yonder the train is whistling. Which way are you going? Where you belong? That's the thing to do. All the Sunday school roads lead to heaven if they are followed right. Let's all meet there.

Secret Indictments Returned.

Columbus, O., April 18.—The grand jury, which adjourned a day or two ago, returned secret indictments against members of the ice trust of this city on the ground that they had conspired in restraint of trade. The men indicted are: S. M. Kinnaird, W. W. Polley, D. O. Davis, Starling Waddell, F. G. Stockdale, D. H. Norville and W. J. Phillips. It was not known until Thursday, when they were arrested and gave bail, that they had been indicted.

man's Winning Card: Is It Brains or Beauty?

By GRACE ELLISON.

HERE was, unless this is some half-forgotten fairy tale, once upon a time, an age when a woman's only ambition was to win the love of her husband and children. But in these times of competition, when women are striving with men in the contest of life, the brains of the fairer sex are occupied with ambitions of a less sentimental kind. The changed times and circumstances by which she is surrounded have forced woman to take upon herself this difficult task, for so we must consider it, when we see how many more qualifications a woman must possess than a man, unless she is to meet with dead failure as she goes up the hill to success.

Did a man has brains and knows how to use them, no more is of him. Attractive manners and a pleasant face, should he possess, will be by no means a disadvantage, but a man can easily command position in the world be he the ugliest mortal that was ever. But with a woman matters are very different. How much truth in the assertion that genius must one day assert itself depends, I whether genius goes to work in the right manner! At any rate, a woman will not take long to discover that as long as man has of dispensing this world's goods, her beauty, providing she has enough to use her opportunities, will take her by a short cut to opposing a woman with brains and beauty is contending with a absolutely devoid of charm, it is the former who is bound to win. A powerful weapon she possesses! Every door at which she will be opened. "I came, I was seen, I conquered," she will exult. "I came, I was seen (and when the person I was interviewed, polite), I was told I should be borne in mind and promptly followed will be the reflection of the other. A woman whose mind is her nerve, and create for herself those opportunities which are the feet of her beautiful sister. Besides intellect appears so much when it belongs to a beautiful woman. Short and not too difficult the ascent of the one, whilst the other, crawling for an inch, is knocked back and to be forced to begin again, will find it hard, a drudgery.

Fortunately for the welfare of mankind, brains and beauty are often found in combination. Beauty alone is not dangerous. It is its influence is not lasting. A brainless beauty generally suffers the same fate as a beautiful ornament, which is purchased and placed to be looked at when time permits.

Though the woman of remarkable beauty will always be able to command admiration, it is the woman with brains who holds in her hands the game of life. But the lady will have to remember that she must be won as a woman and not as a poor imitation of a man.

Weakness of "Strong Men"

STAFF SURGEON A. GASKELL,
Of the British Navy.

Hand-bells is of but little use as regards endurance. If, however, has not been damaged, his training in coordination may have been affected, and so render his large muscles useless.

Seems to me, speaking purely from my own experience among thousands of men, that the physically strong man, as trained by, let me call a perfect giant of muscular strength who rowed for three the Cambridge boat and very nearly died from an attack of influenza his sister, who was a woman of poor physique, not only passed an attack uneventfully, but also nursed him while he was still ill. Often does the "strong" man show such signs of degeneration as premature gray hair? Seldom does the "strong" man appear happy and healthy old age.

Physical culture should always have an end in view bearing on the location.

The first thing to be taught in all physical culture is the avoidance of next the imperative duty of keeping the mouth open.

One thing: these people give much attention to religious questions. The pursuit of riches, the appetite for power, the immoderate earthly joys are all contrary to the evangelical spirit, which renunciation, abnegation, humility, and the abhorrence of temerity. One is less astonished when one reflects that the human at all times known how to conciliate the most strange contradictions.

The Unabated Influence of the Public Press

By VICE-PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS.

The press is a great censor. It passes judgment upon men and things and this judgment becomes, in a large degree, in the course of time, the popular judgment. It does not so frequently sit in judgment upon itself as it does upon others. It is an all-seeing eye, searching wrong-doing and wrong-doers, and as such exercises a powerful influence. It is usually upon the side of cleanliness and decency. It usually stands for that which is best in our civilization and it is a tremendous deterrent to those who might be disposed to betray their trust. Being the source of such potential influence, it is of the utmost importance that the press itself should be pure; that its motives should be of the highest and best. Possessing as it does the confidence of a large constituency, it should give to the people, so far as it can, the truth, the facts, free from bias and without distortion.

The press, like the bench, the bar, the pulpit and the great body of society, has its share of those who are not actuated by any high or ethical considerations and thus bring a noble profession into disfavor. They are fortunately a part of a small minority. The great body of the press, like the great mass of the people whom it serves, is high minded and patriotic. It stands for those things which make for the uplifting of the community and for the general betterment of mankind.

We hear occasionally of the decadence of the press; that it is no longer edited from the editorial sanctum but from the business department. This were unfortunate for the community and for the country if it were so. It is no doubt true that individual editorial utterances do not stand out and ring far as did the editorials of Horace Greely and others in the not long ago, but if this is true, it is due to the fact that there is more competition now than there was in the not remote past. The field has been fully occupied. The editorial pages have been many times multiplied and while the individual editor, perhaps, does not exert so distinct and widespread an influence as formerly, the aggregate influence is quite as great, if not greater, than ever. It is fair to say that the news columns have a more potent influence upon public discussion and the popular judgment than they formerly had.

The Pay of Government Employees

By HON. JOSEPH H. O'NEIL,
Former Head of Sub-Treasury, Boston.

adequate; on the other hand, there are branches of the public service in which under all the circumstances the remuneration is not ungenerous.

The government has a very difficult problem to solve in the arrangement of a basis for the remuneration of the service that it receives. In establishing salaries it is obliged to preserve a certain uniformity, which, as carried out in practice, is subject to the criticism of being unfair to some and more than fair to others.

In Washington once the head of a government department explained this system to me by stating that the government cannot buy labor at the special market price of that labor. A carpenter in Alabama might be glad to get $1.75 a day for his labor, but a carpenter in New York or Massachusetts would rightfully demand, say, $3.50 a day. When the purchasing power of a dollar in New York is compared to the purchasing power of a dollar in Alabama, it will be seen that the New York carpenter is no more generously remunerated than the Alabama carpenter.

But the government cannot discriminate; at least it does not undertake to discriminate in this way, but settles on an average salary for all its employees in any given grade. It was different once when postal employees in certain metropolitan sections received a third more salary than postal employees in other sections.

If any plan like this should be reverted to it would be argued with much show of reason that the same service should have the same salary.

In the case of unusually efficient service which is required of so many government employees, there is no effort made to pay salaries which such service would command in nonpublic enterprises. That is why I have been trying to persuade the bright young men whom I see growing up to turn away from the lure of office-holding and devote their energies and abilities to much more fruitful and desirable effort in the many attractive fields outside of the public service.

Cupid in League with the Waitress

By MISS GEORGIA TEETERS,
President of the Waitress' Union, Chicago.

ried every year.

When a pretty little waitress once gets her eye on a man whom she thinks she could look upon as an asset she begins her campaign against his heart by working up a standing with the chef. Her first move is to inform that functionary that a particular friend of hers is waiting for his meal and that she would consider it a great personal favor if a little extra care were bestowed on the dishes he has ordered. This done, she sees that the table cloth on his table is clean and neat and that he is given a fresh, clean napkin.

She then brings into play her battery of bacon and eggs, fried to a turn. A dish of apple sauce, placed before him with her own dainty little hand, has a disastrous effect on the inner defenses and a cup of rich brown coffee, creamed just to his taste, drives him to the trenches of satisfaction and contentment. By the time she brings him a nice piece of pie, which she has saved especially for him, and which does not look as though it had been slept on by the cook, like the average restaurant pie, he is ready to listen to her terms of surrender. No man, in the opinion of those who have studied the question, can long resist such treatment, and if the waitress happens to be pretty, he cannot resist it at all.

Of all the girls who work for their living in Chicago the waitresses are conceded to have the best chance of winning a husband. There are 1,500 girls employed in the restaurants of Chicago, and of this number about 300 are married.

Christocentricity, the Theology of the Day

By REV. C. F. AKED,
New Pastor of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York City,
Known as "Rockefeller's Church."

UGH PRICE HUGHES once said that the theology of the past was Heliocentric. It started from the idea of hell as the central conception of the religious life. Conversion began in a desire to flee from the wrath to come. But the theology of to-day is Christocentric.

From Christ it starts, and to the whole circumference of definition, deduction and dogma it concerns itself with what was in the mind of Christ, for to the Christian God must mean what God meant to the consciousness of Christ. Let it mean less than that, and it may be new theology or bad, but it is not Christian.

Theology is a small matter compared to religion. Yet in this case what is true of the less is immeasurably more true of the great. O life, to the extremity of each tiniest nerve, if we are to be Christians mighty in word and work, must tingle with Christocentric force. He is the fount and origin of all our supernatural power—power to walk this earth with resounding tread while yet we lift our daring eyes to greet the smiling heavens.

To understand something about Him—this is good, and this is the province of theology. To explain and enforce what we know—this is better, and this is the genius of the preacher. But to carry Christ in the heart, though the highest we know is that we know little about Him, though the experience by which we live defies analysis and will not so much as abide our questioning, yet to carry Christ in the heart, and from His indwelling derive favor with God and power with man—this is best of all. This is the privilege of all His people, and the end of our fellowship, our worship, our preaching and praying, is a life in which every emotion, ambition and passion is Christocentric.

The secret of heroic living? Indeed it is. Moved and controlled by this energy divine, Christianity, age by age, has won its conquering way.

In what name, O martyr in thy shirt of fire, dost thou try conclusions with the gods and the legions, the wild beasts, the torture-chamber and the headsman's sword of Imperial Rome?

In what name, O follower of the Nazarene, darest thou to stand before philosophers and judges, poets and satirists, councils and kings, and oppose the foolishness of preaching to the wisdom of the world?

In what name, Apostle, Hero, Reformer, Missionary, Herald of Christ where Satan's seat is, calling manhood, womanhood, childhood, from death and corruption into loveliness of life again, and out of the pollution of cities' depths and cities' sin causing flowers and fruits to grow—O miracle-worker of our days, in what name and by what power dost thou such things as these?

And the answer comes from lips that tremble yet with the weight of their Hosannas, "Unto Him that loved us and loosed us from our sins by His blood, and made us kings and priests unto His God and Father, unto Him be glory and dominion for ever and for ever!"

The Mysteries of Love

By PAOLO MANTEGAZZA,
President of the Italian Anthropological Society.

than by a saintly woman whose God was her supreme love.

St. Theresa wrote: "Hell is a place where one cannot love."

Woman in her love sacrifices all—pride, fortune, honor and life. Man nearly always sacrifices love to pride, money and honor. Man in love is voluptuous. Woman in love seeks to conquer a heart.

In this sublime binary composition of a man and a woman who love each other the first is an electro-negative element. Here goodness, gentleness, self-abandonment; there force, which wills and controls.

Many young and handsome men never have been loved. They had no force. All great men, no matter of what age or acerbity of temper, always had women to love them. No ferocious assassin, no criminal has lacked a woman to love him, because crime itself is a force.

Mirabeau, hideous of aspect, was adored. Goethe, at more than 60 years of age, was loved by a young woman who traversed Europe to implore his love. Liszt had loves until the last day of his glorious old age.

The love of woman is not found in moderately forcible nervous centers, which dominate or subdue it. Woman thinks as she loves, while man loves as he thinks.

In books, in religious opinions, in morality, in personal character and in habits of life love always is present with woman, be it concealed or apparent.

It is her primary motive power.

It is her soul in everything.

It is responsible for all her faults and virtues.

American Extravagance

By ALFRED MOSELY,
English Philanthropist and Educator.

may be said to the contrary, that the cost of living has outstripped the increase of wages or the advantages of regular employment, nor can the working men expect, with great prosperity and ample employment, to reap all these advantages without having to part with some of their earnings in extra expense; but perhaps the greatest danger and change noticeable in this connection is the high standard of living, if not ruthless extravagance, of all classes in America.

What were luxuries yesterday are considered necessities to-day, and where this is to end it is difficult to foresee; and herein lies hidden trouble for the future. At the present moment everything is keyed up to so high a pitch that a reaction would probably spell disaster, and yet things cannot go on indefinitely on the present lines.

Muzzle, pen up or kill your dog. Don't allow him the liberty of the streets when hydrophobia is as prevalent as developments indicate.

An east Texas man who is alleged to have brainstormed his wife with a shotgun is in jail at Orange for safe keeping because of the ominous conduct of his neighbors.

Houston is enforcing a uniform sidewalk regulation. The Eagle would be glad to see any kind of sidewalks in Bryan, just so there was enough of them. This reminds us that some of the plank walks are getting in bad condition and need renewing.

Following is a brief summary of the bucket shop law passed by the legislature:

Senate bill 50, by Mayfield, prohibits the dealing in futures, operation of bucket shops and cotton exchanges. Prohibits renting a building for this purpose and prohibits telegraph companies from future contracts for dealers in futures. Persons operating a bucket shop are liable to two years' confinement in the penitentiary. Agents offering to make future contracts are liable to a sentence of from ten to thirty days in jail. Telegraph companies who let their wires in bucket shops are liable to a fine of from $100 to $1,000.

THE TEXT BOOK LAW.

A summary of the new text book law will be found of general interest, and is as follows:

Senate bill by Harper prescribes a uniform set of text books for city and country schools. There is to be a State Text Book Board. The list of twenty names, to be submitted to the Governor for him to select five to constitute the Text Book Board, shall be jointly nominated by the State superintendent of public instruction and the president of the State University. Of that number twelve shall be public school teachers, four county superintendents and four city superintendents, from which three teachers, one county and one city superintendent shall be selected to constitute the State Text Book Board, with the Governor and State Superintendent. The bill includes all cities as well as the county schools. The books for high schools, as put on by the House, are eliminated, and will not be included. The preference for Texas authors, all things being equal, remains in the bill, but that in favor of Texas publishers was stricken out. The bill includes for the first time in Texas' physical geography and elementary algebra. It provides that bids shall be received and opened not later than April 1, 1908, and that the books adopted thereunder be in use for five years, beginning with the school session in September, 1908.

THE GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The people of Bryan are well aware of the class of entertainment provided by the A. & M. Glee Club, and the price of admission is easily within the reach of all. There are exactly four voices in each part this year, making a perfectly balanced club, and with the assistance of Miss Hattie Smith and the College Mandolin and Guitar Club the concert will be even better than in past years. It will be remembered that the opera house was packed last year and that many did not go because all seats were sold before the afternoon of the night's concert. The case will probably be the same tonight so that those who wish choice reserved seats had better get them at once. They are now on sale at the Smith Drug Co. Down stairs, 50c; gallery, 25c. The concert will begin promptly at 8:30.

AN ANNUAL INSPECTION.

Federal Official Inspecting Experiment Stations in Texas.

College Station, Tex., April 18.—Dr. W. H. Beal, who is connected with the office of experiment stations at Washington, was here a day or two ago making the usual round of inspection.

All the experiment stations are visited once a year by a Federal officer, who looks into the work of the stations and checks up the accounts of all money appropriated by the Federal Government.

Dr. Beal seemed well pleased with the work being done here and especially complimented the organization of the office and the method of keeping track of the vouchers drawn against the numerous funds.

Prof. J. W. Carson, vice director of the Texas experiment stations, has gone to Troupe for a few days' visit to the sub-station there. Mr. W. S. Hotchkiss is in charge of the Troupe station and has direct oversight of the work.

Dr. N. H. Brown left today for Ennis and other points in North Texas on business of the college. He will be away several days.

THE GLEE CLUB AT ENNIS.

The Glee Club of the A. and M. College of Texas gave Ennis a treat last night that rarely comes this way. The program from start to finish, both in its composition and rendition, was one that would do justice to any institution in the South, and reflects credit upon the A. and M. College of Texas, the student body and those in authority there. Interspersed with classical numbers such as "The Soldiers' Chorus," from Faust, were humorous selections and long familiar college songs, full of rich harmony and most perfectly executed. It is seldom we hear 14 male voices in such perfect harmony and under such perfect control.—Ennis News.

LONG BRIDGE HAS BEEN REPAIRED.

Commissioner P. H. Arrington reported to the Eagle yesterday that the Long Bridge or trestle across the Navasota river, about which there has been so much complaint, has now been placed in thorough repair and is in good shape. This prompt action on the part of the authorities is gratifying, and the Eagle is pleased to announce the result.

Hobson of Alabama, who addressed the congress in behalf of peace, was delegated as the special envoy to present resolutions to the international peace congress at New York.

SEXTON ELECTROCUTED.

Five Distinct Contacts Required Ere Life Was Declared Extinct.

Auburn, N. Y., April 16.—Edward Sexton, who was convicted at Canandaigua three years ago for the murder of Thomas Mahaney, was electrocuted at Auburn prison Tuesday. Five distinct contacts were required before he was declared dead. Five other men in the condemned row bade Sexton farewell Monday night. Included in the number was Chester Gillette, the murderer of Grace Brown.

AN ACCIDENT.

T. T. Tissue Says He Did Not Intentionally Shoot His Wife.

Newton, Tex., April 17.—After T. T. Tissue acknowledged that he shot his wife, claiming that he did it accidentally, the people of the vicinity of Kirbyville and Call were very much wrought up, and it looked very probable that a raid on the jail for the delivery of Tissue would take place.

The intention of the crowd to attack the jail was made known to the officers here, and the sheriff at once wired the governor for aid, and he immediately called the Orange Rifles to the scene. They arrived on the 6:15 train Monday and reported to Sheriff Booker for service. They were placed on guard at the jail, and everything was quiet during the night.

Tissue was carried before Justice of the Peace Kenner for an examining trial, which he waived, and bond was fixed at $2,000. He was carried to Orange for safe keeping.

Mobley and Kennedy, providing a method of reassessing property on which former assessments have been found to be invalid; McGregor's bill providing that no error, omission or formality shall be available in a tax suit unless it be shown that material injury resulted.

SALINAS HANGED.

Mexican Executed at Goliad For Criminal Assault on Girl.

Goliad, Tex., April 17.—Roberto Salinas, convicted of criminal assault at the last term of the district court, was hanged here in the jail yard in the presence of about 500 or 600 people. The girl is named Christina Pera, and is ten years old. The crime was committed Jan. 26 last. This was the first legal hanging in this county.

RIOT - RED HATS.

Brilliant Ceremony Takes Place In the Vatican.

Rome, April 18.—A public consistory took place at the Vatican Thursday with great ceremony. This being the season in which Rome is crowded with tourists the demand for tickets was extraordinary. At an early hour all streets leading to St. Peter's cathedral were black with people hurrying to get good places at the Vatican and soon the hall of beatification and corridors where the papal procession was to pass were crowded with priests, monks, laymen and ladies with black veils, while tribunes erected for the occasion contained the relatives of the pope, the Roman aristocracy and members of the diplomatic corps. The procession accompanying the pope was long and interesting, being composed of many notable personages. The Swiss guard headed the procession and the noble guard surrounded the person of the pontiff, who was dressed in white. He was preceded by cardinals in full red robes and followed by bishops and archbishops. When the pontiff was seated on his throne the six new cardinals advanced, one by one, to receive the red hat. Each prelate knelt at the feet of the pope, while the master of ceremonies held a magnificent red hat over each cardinal's head, the pope saying: "Accipe galterium rubrum," etc. Each cardinal then rose and gave the papal embrace. The new cardinals then passed from cardinal to cardinal to receive the kiss of the brotherhood, while the choir sang softly. The only cardinal created at the secret consistory of April 15 who was not present was Mgr. Rinaldini, papal nuncio at Madrid, who will receive his red hat at the next public consistory. The pope then imparted the apostolic blessing and withdrew surrounded by his court and guards, to preside later at a supplementary secret consistory, the new cardinals meanwhile returning thanks before the altar of the Sistine chapel.

BOARD IN CHARGE.

Takes Hold of Property of Oil Company and Assumes Management.

Kansas City, April 18.—An executive board of three members has taken charge of the property of the Uncle Sam Oil company and will assume its entire management pending the solution of the trouble, in which the concern is involved. Harry T. Tucker, Jr., the indicted secretary-manager, and other officials will be freed from active participation in the company's affairs. This action was decided on at Kansas City, Kan., by the directors and trustees, and a trust deed made out turning over the refineries, distributing station, oil lands and books and papers to the board, which is composed of two Kansas bankers and the county judge.

At Topeka, Judge Pollock, in the United States district court, heard arguments on the application of the Charleston (Ill.) stockholders, who last week asked the appointment of a receiver for the Uncle Sam Oil company, and on petition filed Wednesday at Fort Scott, Kan., other stockholders asked that the concern be declared bankrupt and be placed in the hands of receivers. Fort Scott petitioners allege the company is insolvent.
